More than 115 new faculty were welcomed for the 2023 fall semester. New faculty shared their perspectives.

Iowa State University participates in the Big 12 Faculty Fellowship Program which offers funding to faculty for travel to institutions affiliated through the Big 12 Athletics. Faculty, departments, and units may also seek to host a colleague from another Big 12 institution on their campus. Application materials, eligibility requirements, the list of current Big 12 institutions, deadlines and information about the 2024-2025 fellowship can be found on the Big 12 Faculty Fellowship Program webpage.

The National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity (NCFDD) is an independent membership organization that supports early- and mid-career faculty, postdocs, and graduate students as they transition throughout their careers. Iowa State faculty, staff, postdocs, and graduate students are eligible for an individual membership free of cost. The NCFDD Institutional Membership is an excellent way for departments and units to support professional development for their faculty, postdocs, and graduate students. This membership includes access to a wide range of materials, eligibility requirements, the list of current Big 12 institutions, deadlines and information about the 2024-2025 fellowship can be found on the NCFDD webpage.

The 2024 Teaching Professor Annual Conference, June 7-9, 2024, is a 3-day event that offers faculty development opportunities for practicing faculty, graduate students, and postdocs. The conference is designed to offer opportunities to learn about the latest research in teaching and learning, to network with colleagues, and to develop strategies for improving teaching and learning. Faculty, departments, and units may also seek to host a colleague from another Big 12 institution on their campus. Application materials, eligibility requirements, the list of current Big 12 institutions, deadlines and information about the 2024-2025 fellowship can be found on the Teaching Professor Annual Conference webpage.

The American Association of Blacks in Higher Education (AABHE) is a national membership organization of institutions of higher education that seeks to ensure full and equal access, equitable treatment, and opportunities for African American and historically African American faculty, staff, and students. AABHE provides opportunities for the exchange of ideas and experiences, the sharing of information about the latest in higher education research and practice, and the development of effective strategies to meet the needs of African American faculty, staff, and students. AABHE offers membership to institutions of higher education, to faculty, staff, and students, and to organizations that support the advancement of African American faculty, staff, and students. AABHE also provides a variety of resources, including publications, conferences, and workshops, to support the development of African American faculty, staff, and students.

Faculty Development Opportunities Beyond the Campus

To address the ongoing challenge of creating meaningful collaboration across disciplines, the Provost’s Office leverages peer accountability to provide you the space to work on your writing goals together. Join your faculty colleagues as you work to accomplish your writing goals together. Smile and Write, Thursday, September 21, 2023, 9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m., Room 3560, Memorial Union. To address the ongoing challenge of creating meaningful collaboration across disciplines, the Provost’s Office leverages peer accountability to provide you the space to work on your writing goals together. Join your faculty colleagues as you work to accomplish your writing goals together. Smile and Write, Thursday, September 21, 2023, 9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m., Room 3560, Memorial Union.

Remember to renew your memberships to your professional societies and consider membership renewal to your local, state, or regional professional organization. You may also want to renew your membership to your local or regional professional organization.

The Office of Faculty Success is here to help you with any questions you may have. Please feel free to reach out to us at facultysuccess@iastate.edu or by calling 1-1550 Beardshear Hall.